"THE DEATH STRUGGLE OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY."

George W. Julian, of Indiana, the renegade and disappointed politician, is the author of an article in the March and April number of the North American Review, which he chooses to call "The Death Struggle of the Republican Party." The article is a very elaborate one, and could have been written only by a demagogue or a political corpse. Its bitterness and partisanship are intense. He attempts to review somewhat the history of the Republican party, which he does from a point of view peculiar to Julian. He has a few kind words for the party in its early days, and particularly during the time when he was well fed at the "public crib." But from the time he ceased to be an office holder, he dates the gradual decline of the Republican party, and finally its utter ruin and "death struggle." Mr. Julian pays much attention to Grantism, as he calls it, and in the course of reviewing General Grant's administration, his pen became altogether unmanageable in writing denunciations of the President's civil service policy. He declares that Grant first sowed the seeds of disease in the party, and that the disease claimed its victim when Hayes beat Tilden in the Presidential race. The "final card was then played," and the party is doomed to hopeless ruin and decay. If Jerry Black has been called upon to write the obituary of the Republican party and had done the work when passion and party prejudice raged their worst in his soul, he could not have written with more blindness and condemnation than has George W. Julian. Without reviewing, even in a general way, what he has to say of the party, let us see what this political frog used to be and is now.

Mr. Julian was one of the organizers of the Republican party, but before this, he was a member of the Free Soil party, and in 1852, was the candidate for Vice President on that ticket with John P. Hale. He had served four years in Congress from Indiana, before he became a Republican. Altogether he has served in the 31st, 37th, 38th, 39th, 40th and 41st Congresses. Eight of these years he represented a Republican constituency, and there was hardly a man in Congress who could excel him in party zeal. But when he failed of a renomination in 1870, and likewise failed to get an appointment from President Grant, his political character was changed. So long as the party kept him in office, so long was Julian a zealous Republican; but, when his constituents demanded a change in their representative to Congress, and when he could not repose in an office received by appointment and at the hands of President Grant, he became sour and dyspeptic, and at once imagined that he heard the death knell of the Republican party. According to Julian, the party has been dying ever since, and in fact several times he has pronpunced it dead, and yet it is the healthiest political corpse he ever tackled. His political death took place several years ago, and because of this he thinks as a matter of course the party must die too. Poor Julian, he will never live to attend the funeral of the Republican party. He may write an obituary notice with all the bitterness and malice his disappointment can furnish, but the party will nevertheless control the nation. The achievements made by the Republican party for humanity, for national unity, for emancipation, for education and for Right and Justice, will be gratefully remembered by mankind, when all such as Julian and the words they write, and the deeds they perform, shall have perished from the memory of men.

HOSPITAL EXTRAVAGANCE.

There never has been a time in the history of our State institutions when so much was said in regard to their management as now. Especially is this applicable to our hospitals for the insane. Whether there is any occasion for all this talk and charges regarding extravagance in the management is not definitely ascertained, but there is no doubt some cause for complaints. One will be struck with astonishment to glance over the itemized lists of expenditures for groceries and provisions for these hospitals. They surpass comprehension. The Madison Democrat which, in answer to a correspondent wanted just "one item" which showed extravagance, says:

On page 83, of the report of the Board of Charities for 1877, (has "Index" read that page?) we find the comparative amounts expended for different articles for the use of the northern hospital; and that of sugar looks very queer. We copy it, for the years named, from the report as follows:

SUGAR.

1874—15,205 lbs. at 10 4 per lb	$1,595 28
1875—35,271 lbs. at 11.1 per lb	3,613 78
1876—14,101 lbs. at 10.2 per lb	1,451 97
1877—40,854 lbs. at 11 per lb	4,629 88

It will be seen from the above that over forty thousand pounds of of sugar, costing nearly five thousand dollars, were purchased during the year 1877. Allowing the average number of inmates in the Northern Hospital to be 530 for the past year, this is 77 pounds to each person, nearly twice as much as a strong, healthy person will use. And considering further that very many of the inmates are in a condition which prevents them from using that article, the fact is still the more astonishing. But this is not the only item which strikes one with surprise. There are others almost equally as curious and past explanation. If the friends of the present administration of the Northern Hospital call this sort of management economy, we we would like to know what constitutes extravagance.

PRESIDENTIAL VETOES.

To the Editor.

Janesville, March 1.—Can you give the origin of the word veto, and how often has the veto power been exercised by the Presidents? Is it true that Jackson vetoed more bills than any other President? L.

"Veto" is a Latin word and signifies "I forbid," and has been introduced into the political language of modern times to signify the act by which the executive power of a state or nation refuses its sanction to a measure proceeding from the legislative. The power of cancelling acts of Congress by executive veto, was exercised by Washington, twice; Madison, four times; Monroe, once; Jackson, five times; Tyler, three times; Polk, twice. The first bill ever passed by Congress over the President's veto was the bill relating to steam-vessels in the navy, by President Tyler, in February, 1846. In the early history of our government, Congress had some respect for a President's opinion as expressed in a veto message, but of late years Presidents have used the veto power pretty recklessly, and Congress has ceased to have as much respect for that act as formerly. President Lincoln did not veto any measure. Andrew Johnson vetoed as many bills as all the Presidents named—his vetoes numbering 17. General Grant used that power with extreme care and moderation, only vetoing the inflation bill in 1874.

Our Methodist friends will hold a great Congress in New York next month. It will receive representatives from all the Methodist societies of the world, and will be the most significant body of that denomination ever held by the Church. The object of the Congress is to make some arrangements to restore the church to its primitive simplicity and unworldliness. The time has come when the church is as proud and aristocratic as any in the land. Societies will be admonished not to indulge in costly churches and heavy mortgages, rich carpets, expensive organs, tall towers and large bells. The women will be urged in behalf of practical christianity and permitive modesty, not to spend so much in silk dresses, elegant furs, gaudy hats and sparkling jewelry, but to be humble, unselfish, and liberal to the poor in the churches. The men will also be advised not to think so much of this world's goods, not to indulge in fast horses, unprofitable sports, but to think less of self and more of their neighbors. All will be cautioned not to dance, nor preach on the street, nor take part in games, nor visit places of amusement. Whatever may be the result of this great Congress, it is well enough to let the people remember that the Methodist church of to-day is very unlike the Methodist church of fifty years ago.

The Madison Democrat says: "Since the passage of the Senate resolution to adjourn, after the calendar is cleared up, until April 9th, in order to give the committee on revision of the statutes time to prepare its report, another plan has developed and become popular It is suggested that the Legislature adjourn sine die as early as possible, meanwhile authorizing the revision committee to examine the statutes, and leave with the Governor the duty of calling a special session sometime in May or June. It is said in support of this idea that to adjourn sine die will discharge all employes and stop expense, while a more convenient time for reassembling can be selected."

The West Wisconsin Railway with land grant and all appurtenances, was sold yesterday in the United States Court room, by order of the United States Circuit Court for the Western District of Wisconsin. It was bid in by H. H. Porter, of Chicago, in the interest of a majority of the bondholders, who are supposed to be a Chicago & Northwestern clique. The price was not made public. The road will be placed on a better footing than before, and great improvements will be made.

The United States mints will soon be scenes of great activity. There is a hurry to get them in operation. Dr. Linderman is of the opinion, and Secretary Sherman so reported to the Cabinet, that in March, the mints would be able to coin at least 1,000,000, and perhaps 2,000,000 of the new dollars, but in April they would be able to reach their full running capacity, which is $3,500,000 per month.

There is a good deal of a mystery concerning the New Orleans collectorship and the pardon of Anderson. The President won't appoint Packard because that will be obnoxious to Governor Nicholls. So it seems that Nicholls, and not Hayes, is President so far as the collectorship is concerned.

The Iowa State Senate has passed the bill restoring capital punishment in that State. The bill to behead criminals convicted of murder in the first degree was defeated by a vote of 41 to 4. Bovee should peddle his book through Iowa.

The President is mad at Congress for rushing the Silver Bill through with such velocity after his veto. If he don't get any worse treatment than that at the hands of Congress during the next three years, he may consider himself very fortunate.

There was great excitement in Madison this morning, over the report from Washington that President Hayes was assassinated. Later in the day the news was contradicted, and all was quiet both on the Potomac and at Madison.

In central Illinois the farmers are busily sowing wheat. The prospects are that a greater breadth will be sown than ever.

LOUISIANA.

The Louisiana Issue and its Growing Importance—Will the President Redeem His Republicanism?

Washington, March 1.—A prominent New Hampshire Republican is here for the purpose of urging the appointment of Packard as Collector at New Orleans, and has informed the President that the State will certainly go Democratic unless it is done. He comes without the knowledge of Packard, and the latter knew nothing of his visit or its object until this evening. Senator Rollins, who has managed many political campaigns in New Hampshire, and knows the temper of the people as well as any one, says that this one act of the President would make the State sure for the Republicans, and unless it is done he expects a large Democratic majority. He says there are 5,000 Republicans in New Hampshire who say President Hayes has destroyed the Republican party, and they refuse to vote, because, by so doing, they would tacitly indorse his administration. When contradicted, they ask to have pointed out an act of the President in the interest of the party. If he would appoint Packard, Rollins says they could demonstrate that the President had not entirely deserted the Republicans. There is some obstacle in the way of Packard's appointment which those who are on confidential terms with the President refuse to explain. It is supposed to involve Anderson's pardon, and it is suggested that Nicholls expects to name the Collector if Anderson is pardoned. But no Collector named by Nicholls will be confirmed. Senator Eustis, who is Nicholls' bitter enemy, controls enough Democratic votes in the Senate to defeat any such nomination, with the aid of Republicans who have sworn to allow no one but Packard to be confirmed. It is also stated that if Wells and Anderson would name a man he would be nominated. This rumor is supported by the fact that both Wells and Anderson heretofore have opposed Packard's appointment. It is denied positively, both at the White House and by members of the Cabinet that Nicholls has demanded the removal of Wells and Anderson from their Custom House appointments as the price of Anderson's pardon.

AN EXECUTION.

Hanging of Richard Green at Kansas City, Mo.—Speech of the Culprit on the Scaffold—A "Perfect" Execution.

Kansas City, Mo., March 1.—The hanging of Richard Green, for the murder of Deputy Marshal Hughes, near Independence, Mo., on February 10, 1877, took place here to-day in the narrow alley-way north of the Court House, between it and the high bluffs, at 10:10 a. m. The doomed man walked up to the scaffold with the Marshal and Father Dunn in good spirits considering the occasion. Never has a man faced death so calmly. Scarcely did a muscle quiver, while his death sentence was being read. He appeared entirely resigned to his fate, and his last and only words on the scaffold were, "I die for my crime, in the faith of my Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Good wishes to all men."

The execution was perfect. In eight minutes and forty-five seconds after his drop, the committee announced that the pulsations had ceased.

It was intended that the execution should be private, and only a limited number admitted, but hours before the appointed time the crowds of anxious spectators swelled to thousands, covering all the bluffs in the vicinity, so that it was necessary to call out Company A., Kansas City Guards, and the Craig Rifles to keep back the crowd and prevent any accident.

Green was a young man, aged about 27, a native of Green county, Va., but had lived for some years in Vermont county, Iowa. Green was a wild, reckless fellow, addicted to drinking. He had been arrested in November, 1876, for horse stealing, and escaped from the jail at Sidney, Fremont county, Iowa. He next turned up near Independence, Mo., and having abused the inmates of a house on the outskirts of the city, Deputy Marshal Hughes obtained a warrant and went in search of him. Finding Green in a shanty, Hughes went up to him and demanded his surrender. Before Hughes could show his warrant, Green drew a revolver and fired with fatal effect.

This execution is the first judicial hanging in Jackson county, Mo., since 1839.

The body was given to his sister, who had attended him during his last days, and will be sent to Nebraska City to-night for burial.

SILVER.

How the President Takes his Rebuke—"An Unlucky Day for Hayes."

Washington, March 1.—At the Cabinet meeting to-day there was very little said about the rapid and summary disposition made of the President's veto message yesterday, but nothing has annoyed the President so much since he has been in office, and to several gentlemen to-day he spoke very impatiently when they questioned him about it. One Senator who called this morning remarked jestingly: "Did you notice how we disposed of your veto yesterday?" The President frowned in a way unusual with him, and replied with a harsh tone of irony in his voice: "I did, but I did not expect such indecent haste. I did not suppose two-thirds of Congress could so easily forget what respect was due to an executive." The Senator, who happened to be an ardent silver man, replied with equal warmth: "Some of us in Congress, Mr. President, consider our conduct quite as respectful to you as your conduct in vetoing a bill which more than two-thirds of the representatives of the people demanded should become a law."

POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS.

Provisions of the House Bill, as Agreed to by the Committee on Banking and Currency.

Washington, D. C., March 1—The Banking and Currency Committee to-day finished the consideration of the Phillips Postal Savings Bank bill. The final vote will be taken at the next meeting. The amended bill authorizes deposits at all money-order offices in sums of 25 cents and upwards; provides for book accounts and pass-books, and, when the deposits equal —— dollars, provides for a postal money order on the United States Treasury, free of charge, to be exchangeable for bonds; no person to be allowed to deposit more than $20 in one day; this special issue of bonds to be called postal savings bonds, is to draw interest at the rate of 3.65 per annum these bonds to be exchangeable at par for 4 per cents, also for United States notes, with interest computed to the day of presentation.

BEECHER.

The Great Preacher Makes His First Appearance as a Militia Chaplain.

New York, March, 1.—Henry Ward Beecher made his first appearance as a militia chaplain to-night at the armory of the Thirteenth Regiment of the National Guard of New York State. More than 5,000 complimentary tickets had been issued, and the armory was packed in every part. After battalion drill and dress-parade by the regiment, Col. Austin introduced Mr. Beecher to the troops and handed him his commission. The new chaplain was attired in a suit of sombre black. In a short address Mr. Beecher thanked the regiment for the honor conferred upon him, and, comparing the vast cost of the standing armies of Europe with the citizen-soldiery of America, expressed the hope that the regiment of which he was henceforth a member would maintain its high standing. The address was loudly applauded.

PUBLIC DEBT.

Washington, March 1.—The public debt statement for February shows a decrease in the debt for the month of $2,250,217, and the following balances in the treasury:

Currency, $2,690,765; specie fund for the resumption of fractional currency, $10,000,000; special deposit of legal tenders for the redemption of certificates of deposits, $28,550,000; coin, $131,318,156, including coin certificates, $48,456,000; outstanding legal tenders, $348,618,024.

CASUALTIES.

Fall of a Floor—Several Persons Injured—Killed by the Cars.

Watertown, Wis., March 1—This afternoon while the Washington Ice Company was paying off their hands at the residence of Mr. Ruers, near the Northwestern depot, the floor gave way, precipitating 100 men into the cellar below. A few were injured, but none fatally.

Fond du Lac March 1—Daniel Kerns, about 17 years old, while boarding a freight train at Eden Station early this morning, lost his hold and fell under the cars. One leg was terribly crushed, and may have to be amputated.

WEST WISCONSIN.

The Road for Sale—The Chicago & Northwestern Railroad the Probable Purchaser.

Madison, March 1.—The West Wisconsin railway is on sale to-day, and Porter, of the C. & N. W. railway, is said to have made a bid, when further negotiations were postponed to 5 o'clock. The C. & N. W. road will probably buy it.

BEN WADE DYING.

Cleveland, March 1.—B. F. Wade is reported in such a condition to-night that he cannot possibly hold out much longer. His pulse is nearly imperceptible in one arm, and his respiration is about forty-five per minute. He is only partially conscious, and his tongue and throat are in such a condition that it is impossible for him to speak to his wife and friends who stand around him.

SHOT DEAD.

St. Joseph, Mo., March 1.—A fatal shooting affray occurred in Rosendale, Andrew county, in a saloon, at 10 o'clock last night. O. P. Edwards shot and instantly killed Dennis Ogle in a quarrel. Ogle was 22 years old, son of Capt. Henry Ogle, a farmer. Edwards is 19 years old, and came recently from Iowa. He escaped and has not been arrested.

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.

DesMoines, Ia., March 1.—The Senate, this morning, after a vote of 41 to 4 against the decapitation of criminals, passed the bill restoring capital punishment, the vote being ayes 28, nays 19.

The claim of Col. Calkins for interest which was allowed him on a final settlement with the State four years ago, but which was never paid, was considered in the Assembly yesterday, and was laid upon the table by a vote of 46 to 45. This claim should be paid, and thus put an end to the matter.

Paul Leonard and his son of the same name, pensioners of the war of 1812, and 107 and 85 years old respectively, are living together at St. Scholastique, Ont.

LEGISLATURE.

General Slaughter of Bills in Both Houses.

And a Large Number Made the Special Order for Tuesday Morning.

The Constitutional Amendment Fails in the Senate.

Wild Rumors About the Assassination of President Hayes.

FROM MADISON.

Special dispatch to the Janesville Gazette.

MADISON, March 2.

ASSEMBLY.

The committee reported in favor of the indefinite postponement of the bills establishing a State inebriate asylum and appropriating $50 to each grange in the State.

Calkin's printing claim was laid over and made the special order for Tuesday morning. The Assembly concurred in the Senate bill to prevent making and publication of deceptive statements relative to the business of fire insurance companies.

Both houses adjourned till Monday evening.

SENATE.

A joint resolution providing for constitutional amendment forever prohibiting the liquor traffic within this State, came up. On consideration it was lost a majority of the entire Senate not voting in the affirmative. A reconsideration was moved by the friends of the measure and made the special order for Tuesday morning, when it is expected that the Senate will pass it, but the Assembly will kill it.

All bills relative to plans for the care of insane are also made the special order for Tuesday morning.

A bill was passed appropriating $89,372 to the State Insane Hospital.

The bill was killed prohibiting the employment of young children in factories.

The Legislature will probably adjourn March 12th, and take a recess until April 9th.

Tremendous excitement existed last night and this morning over a report that President Hayes had been assassinated. By noon, however, when it was ascertained to be a hoax, quiet was restored.

Mortified Into Insanity.

A man named J. E. Putnam, in New York, was charged with defaming a man with whom he had some business trouble, and was placed in the Ludlow-street jail. Mortification drove him mad. About a week ago the inmates of the jail were awakened one night by dreadful shrieks and a hoarse cry for help. The keepers hurried to learn the cause of the clamor and found it issued from Putnam's cell. He had drawn himself up against the wall, and was shrinking from the attack of some imaginary assassin. The keepers tried to pacify him and partially succeeded, but after that he never fully recovered his faculties. When Dr. O'Brien came next morning he went to the patient's cell and was surprised at the change that had occurred in him. His eyes were wild and glittering, and he kept rolling them about as though looking for some hidden danger that was threatening him. The doctor tried to draw him in conversation, and at once discovered that the man was subject to wild delusions about himself and his surroundings. He told with an air of secresy that he had fathomed the secret of his imprisonment. The keepers, he said had murdered the woman he loved and they had buried her body in a heap of sawdust which lay in an adjoining cell. He had heard her cries, and seen her corpse, and he knew that the keepers had stolen from her $20,000. Dr. O'Brien thought to divert the patient's thoughts into a more rational channel, but in vain, and when he tried to administer some soothing draughts he found that Putnam had conceived the insane idea that he was in league with others to poison him. From the moment in which this fancy possessed him, he could not be induced to take nourishment. In fact, he would not permit any one to come near him except Warden Watson. At length he became entirely unmanageable. He would pace the corridor, shrieking into the cell doors, "Putnam is here, you villains! You cannot kill him." On Wednesday he drove into the hallway, rushed up and down, leaping upon settees and trying to scale the windows, and was busily engaged in smashing the glass in them with his naked hand when the keepers approached, and he quietly submitted to them. Again he was discovered gazing out into the street, and scrawling undecipherable notes upon little bits of paper, which he was trying to float into the open air. When disturbed he turned away and concealed his writing, but immediately broke out with a triumphant cry of "I don't care now! She shall get them." Putnam has been committed to an insane asylum.

No Judgement Agains Barnum.

Mr. P. T. Barnum emphatically contradicts the report which has been published in various papers—The Sun among the number—that a verdict for $40,000 has been found against him in Cincinnati for libeling some rival showman, whom he charged with using his cuts, copying his bills, announce sheets, &c. He affirms that the verdict was rendered against Mr. W. C. Coup, alone, and was based upon the statements of one of the agents of the Cincinnati show; that the verdict is ridiculously large, and that Mr. Coup's attorneys will appeal the case. Mr. Barnum adds that he will continue to expose, prosecute, and punish all persons who attempt to trade upon his popularity and reputation as a caterer to the amusement of the public. He claims to own every dollar invested in his own establishment, known as "The Greatest Show on Earth," and that he has no sort or kind of interest in any other show, notwithstanding the continual assertions of other showmen to the contrary —*N. Tipsy Senators.

Washington Correspondence of the Boston Herald.

Several letters ask me to publish the names of the Senators who were most jolly tight on the night of the passage of the Silver bill. There is this much to be said in favor of the Senators who may take ten or fifteen drinks too many on the occasion of a continuous all night session, that they do not have an opportunity to get a good dinner at the usual hour, and that the strain upon them is often very great. They drink on empty stomachs, and are soon half-seas over. The trouble the other night all began with a few bottles of champagne. Had the worthy Senators taken nothing but champagne there would have been no trouble, but some of them had taken whisky before the wine came up, and more of them piled in the "vintage of Kentucky" afterward. The result was confusion in the Senator's stomachs, and ultimately dismay in the Senatorial brains. One or two of the Senators who distinguished themselves on this occasion were men who have always got drunk and will always do so during all night sessions. Most of them will not do so any more.

He Understood German.

From the Boston Post.

A gentleman residing in this city, who was born and lived until early manhood in Berlin, but who speaks English very fluently, went into a barber shop a short time ago to have his hair cut. It so happened that the only workmen present, were two Germans, neither of whom knew this gentleman. When his turn came the knights of the razor began to comment upon his personal appearance, their remarks being made in German, which they evidently did not suppose he understood. As the towels were being tucked down around his neck, his facial expression, the state of his linen and other matters were touched upon. Finally the hair cutting proper was begun. The first clip had no sooner been made than he who was using the shears remarked to his companion, "This hair is as stiff as hog's bristles!" This remark was a capper. The victim of these pleasantries burst into a laugh that made his would-be critic jump. "Do you understand German?" said the astounded barber. "Yes, I do," was the reply; "but don't let that disturb you; go on and finish my bristles." There was silence in that shop for a time.

Origin of the Rooster in Politics.

The Cincinnati Enquirer explains the origin of the "rooster" in politics. It says: It was not so late a period as 1840; the year of the "log cabin," "hard cider," and "coon skin" campaign which resulted in the election of General Harrison, that he first made his appearance. Indiana then had her state election in August. The editor of the Indianapolis Sentinel was J. W. Chapman. In those days locomotion was slow, and it required days and even weeks to get the returns from the back counties. It so happened that in some particular county in Indiana, the Democrats made a gain over previous elections. An enthusiastic Democrat wrote to a friend in Indianapolis the news, and not knowing Mr. Chapman, the editor of the Sentinel, personally, requested his friend to communicate the facts to Chapman, adding these significant words, "Tell Chapman to crow." Catching the inspiration from his second-hand correspondent, Chapman did "crow" in his paper, and as the business of "crowing" is usually done by the chanticleer, he brought out one of those fine large birds at the head of his columns.

This was the first rooster ever placed in a Democratic paper to rejoice over a Democratic victory. As the general results of that election was against us, it was a matter of derision for the Whig papers, when any Whig victory was obtained, to add these words, "Tell Chapman to crow." This assisted to fix the matter in the popular mind, and to nationalize the emblem. No better one could have been adopted. The rooster is probably the most brave and gallant of birds. He is never conquered as long as he has life.

A Millionaire Convict.

Jacob Huntzinger, of Pottsville, began life as a poor but energetic and penurious boy. He made money, married a thrifty wife, went into timber, land and colliery speculations, grew rich, and was mean to miserliness. At length he determined to go into banking. He changed the Life and Health Insurance Company into the Miners' Life Insurance and Trust Company, was elected President, and bought up most of the stock. Deposits poured in, and the profits were enormous, the dividends ranging from 15 to 40 per cent. These dividends were not, however, earned. The reputed millionaire made unlucky investments, and saved himself from ruin by misusing the funds of the bank. He tried to conceal the truth by keeping up the big dividends, but, when concealment was no longer possible, the bank suspended. The developments showed systematic fraud on the part of Huntzinger, and his son, the cashier. They were indicted, convicted, sentenced to two years in jail, and, at the age of three-score-and-ten, Jacob Huntzinger is in a prison cell, and his son is in another.

Daniel Webster's Page.

Washington Post.

Mr. Isaac Bassett has been an employe of the Senate for forty-six years, and he is still a good looking man. He is now Assistant Doorkeeper, a position he has attained by gradual and well-deserved promotion. He was brought to Washington in 1832 by Daniel Webster, then United States Senator, and made a page. At that time there were thirty-six Senators, and up to the arrival of Bassett one page served them all. Bassett became page No. 2, and he was required to work six months without pay to learn the duties of that important position. He remained a page for six years, and then was promoted to a better paying place. A reporter of the Post attempted to interview Mr. Bassett on old times in the Senate, but he declined, saying:

"I'm going to write a book some of these days and tell what I've seen; so I don't want it spoiled by the newspapers. I've seen a good deal here and mean to tell it all in my book. A good many newspaper men have been after me, but I don't want to tell anything yet."

Tortures that not be Endured.

People suffer a great deal of pain annecessarily. Among tortures that need not be endured are those inflicted by the rheumatism and gout, since the acrid element in the blood which produces them by contact with the sensitive covering of the muscles and joints may be eliminated by the use of that matchless depurent, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, before the inflammatory symptoms are developed to any great extent. When it is considered what excrutiating tortures rheumatism inflicts, and what a tendency it has, when fully developed, to attack the heart, the advisability of an early use of such a reliable antidote becomes at once apparent. The rheumatic virus is expelled from the blood by the increased action of the kidneys—which act as strainers—produced by the Bitters, and the sufferer will find, if he uses this supreme defensive agent, that he will be protected against a return of the agonizing complaint. Dyspepsia, fever and ague, liver and bowel complaints and other maladies, and also cured by this admirable remedy.

Potato Planting.

Except for a few very early ones we would not plant potatoes until the ground is dry and warm. Though late planting is to be avoided, it is to be preferred to that which is unreasonably early. Not only should the season be suitably advanced, but the land should be plowed for some days, weeks if possible, before the planting is performed. This in order to secure a dry and warm seed bed. If the land was in grass the previous season we would spread a liberal quantity of good compost manure, after the plowing was done, and harrow it in. In the stubble fields we should spread the manure before plowing. Whatever the character of the soil we should in addition to the compost, use some kind of "special" fertilizer in the hill. This will have the double effect of largely increasing the quality of the crop. The seed ought not to come in direct contact with these or any other fertilizers. Rows should be at least three feet apart, and the hills from one and a half to three feet in the row The seed should be will covered, so that if the weather should be dry the sprouting may not be delayed.—N. E. Homestead.

Fancy Poultry.

I often hear farmers say that the imported breeds of poultry are good for nothing for farmers; that they are only for fanciers and breeders of fine poultry. I am a young farmer, and concluded to try a fancy breed, but I do not feel sorry for the $12 I paid two years ago for a trio of White-Crested Black Polands. Within the two years I have sold fowls to the amount of $75, and eggs to the amount of $125, and have forty hens and four cocks left, for which I lately refused an offer of $100. There are few persons, whether farmers or others, who do not delight to have pretty fowls. I think the White-Crested Black Polish fowls cannot be excelled by any other breed. They have black, shining bodies, and large white crests; this gives them a very curious and attractive appearance. I get as many eggs from my forty hens as some of my neighbors get from one hundred of the dunghill sort. My opinion is that if farmers would get the improved breeds, we would hear less complaint about their poultry.—N. N. K., in Country Gentleman.

Experience in Raising Hogs.

EDITORS WESTERN RURAL:—In a recent number of The Western Rural, I noticed a statement about cattle and hog-raising in Fulton county, Ill., and was pleased to peruse it. I will give my experience in that line. I commenced with the Suffolk breed, but had poor success in raising pigs. Those I raised ate two-and-a-half bushels of corn per month, and at fifteen months, weighed 225 pounds. Next, I tried Chester Whites; had the same luck in raising pigs as with the former. The corn eaten per month was three bushels each; weight at 15 months, 300 pounds. Then I tried the Berkshires. They are good mothers, and raise pigs fast; eat about three-and-a-half bushels of corn per month; weight at 15 months, 225 pounds. I have also raised Poland-Chinas. Like the Berkshires, they are good mothers, and raise a good number of pigs; eat three-and-a-half bushels of corn per month, and weigh, at 15 months, 350 pounds. The Essex are good mothers, and the pigs grow very fast. They consume about two-and-a-half bushels per month, and weigh at 12 months an average of 300 pounds; but that is about as large as they will grow.

In my experience the above named breeds will consume corn and make pork as follows:

Suffolk	37½	bushels	225 pounds
Chester White	45	"	300 "
Berkshires	52½	"	225 "
Poland-China	52½	"	350 "
Essex	37½	"	360 "

These figures are the average of what the hogs make in pens of from 8 to 30 head.

Sixty-Eight Years on One Farm.

Our venerable but still active friend Gen. O. F. Marshal, of Steuben county, in completing his annual club list for the Country Gentleman for 1878, writes under date of February 21st, that it is sixty-eight years ago that day, that he took possession of his present farm. During how many of these years, continuously down to the present time, he has annually remitted from thirty to fifty dollars for subscriptions to this Journal, we cannot well say, but there are few examples within our memory of longer and more efficient services of the kind, and none of greater promptitude and more unfailing accuracy. Were all our friends as indefatigable, and we are happy to say that many of them bid fair to rival Gen. Marshal, if spared to the same advanced years, we should hope ere long to see the Country Gentleman placed at the fireside of every good farmer in the State.

A dead body, supposed to be that of a dramatic advertising agent from the big amethyst ring on his middle finger, was found at the head of Water street on Monday evening last, stabbed to death in twenty places. The body was partially identified by a citizen of New York, who said that he met the unfortunate man in the morning, who displayed several paragraphs in regard to Modjeska's "realistic" dresses, her manner of cutting her corns, an anecdote about her grandfather, where she bought her false hair, etc., which he said he was about to "hand in" to the Boston newspaper-men. The unfortunate wretch was undoubtedly stabbed to death with the scissors of the outraged journalists.

The penetrating winds incident to this season of the year are a severe ordeal for the lungs. The neglect of a hard cough generally leads to a weakness of the lunge, which, not unfrequently results in Consumption.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP will at once relieve and loosen a tight cough and is such an agreeable remedy that children will take it without being coaxed. A cold on the lunge, if consumption is already developed, may be easily mastered by the use of the Pulmonic Syrup, together with Schenck's Mandrake Pills to clear the system of the accumulated mucus.

In more serious cases, where the disease has become deeply seated, and the patient suffers from loss of appetite, weakness and emaciation SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC should be used in connection with the above mentioned remedies, to stimulate the appetite and bring the digestive, powers into healthy action, thereby sustaining the strength of the patient and enabling him to resist the progress of the disease until the PULMONIC SYRUP may perform its healing and cleansing work.

The use of these standard remedies according to the directions which accompany them, cannot fail to produce most satisfactory results. A letter addressed to Dr. Schenck, cor. Sixth and Arch Sts., Philadelphia, asking advice, will promptly receive the Doctor's personal attention, free of charge.

Schenck's Medicines are for sale by all Druggists.

SWORN EVIDENCE.

The following Cure is probably the most remarkable ever effected by any medical preparation for the treatment of Catarrh:

Gentlemen.—I hereby certify that I have had Catarrh for ten years, and for the last six years have been a terrible sufferer. I was rendered partially deaf, had buzzing in the head, pains across the temple, dizzy spells, weak and painful eyes, swollen and ulcerated tonsils, hard and constant cough, severe pain across the chest, and every indication of consumption. My head ached all the time. The matter accumulated so rapidly in my head and throat that I could not keep them free. Frequently at night I would spring out of bed, it seemed to me, at the point of suffocation. I would then have recourse to every means in my power to dislodge the mucus from my throat and head before being able to sleep again. For a period of six years my tonsils were ulcerated and so much inflamed that I could with difficulty swallow. I finally consulted an eminent surgeon in regard to an operation on them, but at his request postponed it. The constant inflammation and ulceration in my throat caused by the poisonous matter dropping down from my head had so irritated and inflamed my lungs that I coughed incessantly,—a deep, hard cough. Meanwhile my system began to show the effects of this disease, so that I lost flesh, grew pale, and showed every symptom of an early death by consumption. When matters had reached this stage, or about six months ago, I began the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH. After using the first bottle I began to improve rapidly. The first dose seemed to clear my head as I had not known it to be for years. It seemed gradually to arrest the discharges. It stopped my cough in three days. By using it as a gargle I soon reduced the inflammation and swelling of my tonsils, so that they soon ceased to trouble me. The soreness across my chest disappeared, the buzzing noises in my head ceased, my senses of seeing and of hearing were completely restored, and every symptom of disease that had reduced me to the verge of the grave disappeared by the use of SANFORD'S RADICAL CURE FOR CATARRH.

I have been thus explicit because, as a druggist, I have seen a great deal of suffering from Catarrh, and hope to convince many that this is a great remedy.

I am familiar with the treatment of Catarrh as practised by the best physicians, and have consulted the most eminent about my case. I have used every kind of remedy and apparatus that have appeared during a period of six years past, and have, while following their use, taken great care of my general health, but obtained no relief or encouragement from any of them.

COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTER

Affords the most grateful relief in all Affections of the Chest and Lungs.

CHRONIC PLEURISY CURED.

MESSRS. WEEKS & POTTER: Gentlemen.—Having for many months past suffered with a very lame side, called by my physician Chronic Pleurisy, caused by a former injury and strain, and for which I used many prescriptions and liniments, as well as the so-called rheumatic cures, without the least benefit, my physician recommended one of your COLLINS' VOLTAIC PLASTERS, which, to my great surprise, relieved the pain and soreness almost immediately, and I have been able to attend to my household affairs ever since with perfect ease and comfort, whereas, before the application of your invaluable Plaster, I was scarcely able to do anything. I consider them inestimable, and shall with pleasure recommend them to the afflicted. Yours respectfully, MRS. FRANCES HARRIMAN.

ORLAND, Me., April 21, 1876.

There is no medical or protective appliance that will prove so grateful and effective in Tickling Coughs, Irritation and Soreness of the Chest and Lungs. We believe them capable of preventing serious diseases of these organs.

PRICE, 25 CENTS.

Do not confound these Plasters with the ordinary Plasters of the day, that by comparison are absolutely worthless.

FARM NOTES.

The Minnesota Legislature recently passed a law, which the Governor has approved, voting an appropriation of $150,000 for the relief of the grass-hopper ravaged districts of that State.

Good dairymen contend that milk is partly absorbed when kept for a long time in the udder, also asserting that cows milked thrice daily produce more milk and butter than if they were milked only twice a day.

Based on the average yield of land in the United States, it would require the product of four thousand acres in corn, or six thousand acres in wheat, to fully load one freight steamer of a carrying capacity of 3,000 tons.

Forty-seven families, numbering nearly two hundred persons, left Pittsburgh, Pa., on Thursday, by steamboat, for Pine Bluff, Ark., where they will settle. Each family took two weeks' supply of provisions, and many of them took their household furniture.

Buttermilk cheeses are made by simply straining the buttermilk through a cloth, and then either gently heating the buttermilk, which causes the curd to separate, or, as is sometimes done, by the addition of rennet. This kind of cheese is not unworthy of attention, as it is often richer than that made from milk only once skimmed.

Peas and beans, corresponding more with the elements of fat than the various grains, are better adapted to the production of wool than either wheat, corn, rye, barley, oats or buckwheat. These latter, together with the ruta-baga turnip, being peculiarly adapted to the production of fat, should be used mostly for the feed of sheep when undergoing the process of fattening.

Gen. Le Duc, commissioner of agriculture, has left his tea culture for a while to engage in the more pleasing business of trying to secure the removal of lady clerks in the Interior Department who write newspaper letters and have spoken despectfully of his agricultural capacity.

Books and papers form as much a part of a farmer's working tools as do the plow and shovel and hoe. The farmer who attempts to use the latter without the assistance of the former does an "up hill business" which nearly always ends in failure and poverty.

An Eastern farmer says: After much experimenting with all the varieties of corn, sowing broadcast, in drill, and cultivating by hoeing it, I have come to the conclusion that the best and most profitable way to raise corn fodder is to plant sweet corn, put your rows three feet apart, plant thick not more than two feet apart, put in six to eight stalks to a hill, manure heavily, keep it clear of weeds, hoe two or three times, and you will have an abundant crop of the best kind of fodder for milch cows

A new industry has recently sprung up in parts of Minnesota, that has already arrived at the dignity of statistics. Frog culture is the new thing; it is a simple matter, consisting chiefly in the protection of eggs and tadpoles from birds and other enemies, by means of wire screens. The product, thus far reported, amounts to 3,000 dozen of frog legs, of which about two-thirds have been shipped to St Louis. The average quotation of prices is 20 cents per dozen.

Value of Cobs.

According to a single analysis reported in Prof. Johnson's "How Crops Grow," the ash of corn contains forty-seven per cent, potash, four per cent. magnesia, and nearly four and one-half per cent. phosphoric acid, which would indicate that cobs are very valuable as fertilizer; but the amount of ash in corn cobs is exceedingly small, being only about one-half of one per cent., or eleven pounds in a ton. This would give about five pounds of potash, worth not far from half a dollar. The best use we have ever known cobs to be put to as a fertilizer was as bedding for calves. The cobs were placed several inches in thickness over the floor of the pen in which calves were kept loose through the summer. The tramping of the calves broke the cobs into small fragments which would decay readily in the soil, while as a clean and comfortable material for bedding, they could hardly be surpassed. At least that is the report of those who have used them. A bed of dry cobs a foot deep would absorb a large quantity of urine before becoming foul or unfit for bedding, and after being thus saturated, would prove quite valuable as a fertilizer. Cobs are, undoubtedly, of some value as food for cattle, but much depends upon the facilities one has for preparing them. It will not do to pay much corn as toll for grinding cobs, if we regard them according to their chemical value; yet, when cobs and corn are ground together, the meal for feeding to animals may be worth nearly as much, practically, by weight, as corn meal. The cobs make the meal lighter, and, perhaps more digestible. At any rate, the gastric juice of the stomach will more easily be mingled with the cob-meal than with clear corn-meal, which, if ground fine, is apt to lie very compactly when taken into the stomach without other food. Like wheat shorts, ground cobs have a mechanical effect upon corn meal in the stomach, acting as a divisor and separator of the particles. Corn-cobs also make pretty good fire kindlings, when dry, and in place of better material may be worth saving for that purpose.—N. Y. Farmer.

Habits of Sheep.

They perseveringly follow their leader wherever he goes; but if, in case of sudden alarm, any one of the flock runs forward to escape, and thus takes the lead, the rest generally follow him regardless of any obstruction. Of this singular disposition, Dr. Anderson once witnessed an instance in the town of Liverpool. A butcher's boy was driving about twenty fat wedders through the town, but they ran down a street along which he did not want them to go. He observed a scavenger at work with his broom a little way before them, and called out loudly for him to stop the sheep. The man accordingly did what he could to turn them back, running from side to side, always opposing himself to their passage, and brandishing his broom with great dexterity; but the sheep, much agitated, pressed forward, and at last one of them came right up to the man, who fearing it was about to jump over his head while he was stooping, grasped the short broomstick in both hands and held it over his head. He stood for a few seconds in this position, when the sheep made a spring and jumped fairly over him without touching the broom. The first had no sooner cleared this impediment than another followed, and another, in such quick succession that the man, perfectly confounded, seemed to lose all recollection, and stood in the same attitude till the whole flock had jumped over him, not one of them attempting to pass on either side, though the street was quite clear. As this took place during wet weather, the man was entirely bespattered with mud before they had all passed, and it is impossible to conceive a more ludicrous appearance than the poor fellow made on this occasion.

Washington's Coffin.

Ever since the attempts to seize the remains of Abraham Lincoln from the sepulcher at Springfield, Ill., last year, persons in charge of Mount Vernon have feared some attempt would be made to steal Washington's coffin, and have lately connected the tomb with the residence on the grounds by a burglar alarm.

We know the cause and the remedy needed; no guess work, but knowledge gained by years of experience in the treatment of Chronic diseases exclusively; no encouragement without a prospect. Candid in our opinions, reasonable in our charges, claim not to know everything, or cure everybody, but do lay claim to reason and common sense. THE GAZETTE.

SATURDAY, MARCH 2, 1878.

CITY AND COUNTY.

BRIEFLETS.

—March reigns.

—Applebee to-night.

—A new moon will arrive in Janesville to-morrow.

—Jack Frost has had rather poor health this winter.

—The ritualists call to-morrow Quinquagesimal Sunday.

—Time for a baby show. Two or three new stars arrive daily.

—Lent will commence next week. Umbrellas are keeping lent already.

—Marches comes in with a ba-ba and will doubtless go out with a hoop-la.

—Some one must have plucked the beam from out of the sun's eye. So mote it be.

—Judge Cotheren opens court in Monroe next Tuesday in place of Judge Conger. He is an able jurist.

—The sound of the hammer is heard in the land. A dozen or more buildings are now being erected in the city.

—Two shillings will admit you to the best lecture of one of the best lecturers in Wisconsin to-night at All Souls.

—He now clasps her lovingly in his arms and softly whispers: "Oh deary, you're worth your weight in g-g——silver."

—Martin and Perigo are still before Justice Phelps on a charge of assaulting Collins Bros., the examination not yet concluded.

—Shakesperian students will enjoy a treat at All Souls this evening, in listening to Applebee's masterly study of Shylock and his associates.

—Piano recital at Miss Battle's music rooms, Monday evening, March 4th, at half past seven o'clock. This entertainment is free and open to all.

—Mrs. L. Peterson's select school will enter upon another term Monday, March 4, and will doubtless prove as successful as in the past, which is saying much.

—The Trinity church ladies will give a social at the residence of J. P. Williams next Tuesday evening to which a cordial invitation is extended to friends of the society.

—During the week which ends to-day there have been issued at the post office 131 money orders calling for $1,561 and 101 paid calling for $1,648.27, making a total business of $3,209.27.

—Wieglef, the barber, is happy. He has bought back his old shop in Exchange block, up stairs, and will always be at home there to attend to the wants of his many patrons, from this time forth.

—Hon. Alex Graham is in the city, indulging in the many handshakes of friends who congratulate him on the success of his Iowa City enterprise. Mr. Graham is always heartily welcomed in Janesville, and deservedly so.

—It will be noticed in the list of the interments, published elsewhere, that during the last month there have been but four interments, and the deceased have averaged over 75 years in age. This speaks well for the city's health.

—Marshal Keating and Officer Parker had a lively tussel with Joe Cook, Jr., last evening. Joe was as full of fight as he was of whisky, and it took several thumps and come-alongs to bring him into Colley's cooler, where he is now locked up.

—The managers of the Long Branch Dancing Club wish to say that those desiring to attend the Temple of Honor concert on Tuesday night can do so and yet have plenty of time left before Lent to attend their last party, which is not as some have understood a full dress affair.

—A telephonic communication has been arranged between the Northwestern freight house and passenger depot so that the moments of leisure can be filled up with singing solos for each other's amusement. It is used to tell-a-funny story too. It is to be developed from time to time.

—A flock of geese was seen going south and a flock of ducks going north. There seems to be a difference of opinion among the feathered ones as to the kind of weather there is coming. They don't have faith in the prophecies of old indications and judge for themselves, which results evidently in a difference of opinion.

—Spooner White desires to contradict another of the wild rumors concerning small pox. He says neither he nor his family have been exposed even, much less have they been taken sick. As long as folks will persist in circulating such frothy stories as are now going the rounds it is evident that the fools are not all dead.

—Capt. Lumley Ingledew, one the original members of the Y. M. A., and who was formerly connected with the law office of H. K. Whiton, but now practicing his profession in the city of great fires, is visiting old acquaintances in this city. Lumley looks, feels and acts happy, and his friends are also happy to see him thus. He is the guest of His Honor, Mayor Norcross.

—Sheriff Colley has appointed B. H. Baldwin, who has charge of the switches, and J. W. Hodgdon, the baggage master at the Northwestern depot, as deputy sheriffs. Good behavior will now be strictly enforced in and about the railroad grounds, and evil doers will please take notice accordingly. Tramps too will do well to avoid taking any lay-over checks for Janesville as they will be nabbed quickly.

—Miss Van Duzee, for nine years a missionary at Erzeroum, eastern Turkey, is to be in the city on Monday, and will speak in one of churches Monday evening. She will give an interesting account of the domestic and social lives of the people in that country, giving illustrations of manners and customs, and exhibiting costumes of American and Turkish women. Miss Van Duzee will return to her mission work as soon as the state of the country is such as to render it safe.

—The Congregationalists held a pleasant social at the residence of Mr. Josiah Wright last evening. The house was well filled, and an abundance of amusements and entertainments furnished. Rev. Mr. Sawin read a selection from one of Eggleston's novels. Mr. and Mrs. Wingate and Mrs. Jones furnished the music, and some amusing experiments of mind reading were made. Parlor croquet, and other games were supplied to those who desired to participate, and a general good time was the result.

—The sale of tickets for the Hyer sisters' concerts, to take place March 11 and 12, will begin Monday morning at Moseley's. Too much cannot be said in praise of the entertainments presented by this company, and in Janesville, as elsewhere, they will be greeted by large audiences, their reputation being such as to cause many to greatly desire an opportunity of seeing and hearing them. Such an opportunity now being afforded, it will doubtless be improved. It is expected that there will be a lively rush for tickets next Monday, and that the sale will continue brisk.

THE WEATHER.

The thermometer at 7 o'clock this morning stood at 43 degrees above and at 2 o'clock at 50 degrees above. Rain last night and a drizzling day. One year ago to-day there was snow, and the thermometer stood at 23 degrees and 35 degrees above.

The indications are falling barometer, increasing easterly to southerly winds, warmer and cloudy, followed by rainy weather, cautionary signals continue at Milwaukee, Ludington and Grand Haven.

MME. JULIA RIVE-KING.

It seems almost superfluous to say anything about this well known artist beyond announcing the date at which she is to play here. Her rank as the very first artist in this country, and as one of the greatest in any country, is so universally acknowledged among musicians that all who are interested in music and playing of the very highest character probably know all about her already. But there may be some young people and others, who need and desire such opportunities to improve their musical intelligence as can only be had through the hearing of great artists, who are not yet familiar with Mme. Rive-King's reputation. To such it is only necessary to say that she stands in the very first rank, and that no one who is being educated in music, or desires to become musically intelligent, can possibly afford to lose this concert. Miss Whinnery, the Boston soprano, who assists Mme Rive-King, is a singer of very high standing, and will not fail to interest every one. The selections to be played and sung are partly classical, and partly of a more popular character, but all good. Those who heard Mme. Rive-King last October, will remember with what intense interest everybody listened from the first note to the last. We do not doubt that everyone who heard her then will go now, and induce others to. Remember the date, Thursday, March 7th.

THE TEMPLE'S ENTERTAINMENT.

The literary and musical entertainment, to be given under the auspices of the Temple of Honor next Tuesday evening promises to be of more than usual interest, and two-shillings cannot well be invested in a more profitable manner. There are to be no reserved seats, but the general tickets will be limited in number to the capacity of the hall. It is a good opportunity for those who wish to enjoy themselves and at the same time help along a worthy cause. An attractive programme of fourteen numbers has been arranged. Miss Lily Runals will take a leading part. Miss Lizzie Battle will give a solo and act as accompanist. Mrs. J. W. St. John will sing, as will also Miss Blinn, J. P. Williams, Mrs. C. B. Conrad, and a male quartet. Silas Kent will give a cornet solo, and Charlie Patterson a character song. With such talent there is no doubt but that the entertainment will be most worthy of a liberal patronage. The ladies, who are interested in the work being done by the Temple, are enthusiastically disposing of tickets, and there will doubtless be a large audience.

A HAPPY GATHERING.

Last evening there was a happy gathering at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Libbey, in which music and mirth were wedded. The Court Street Methodist choir were invited to hold their regular weekly rehearsal there, and about twenty-five more friends were also called in to participate in the social season which followed the musical exercise. Two tables were gracefully and bountifully laden with luxuries and necessaries to satisfy the true inwardness of the physical nature, and pleasant chit-chat abounded. The occasion was a joyous one and its enjoyability was by no means dampened by the rain which poured down upon the outside world, as carriages were provided for the guests when they desired to turn homeward. Mr. and Mrs. Libbey have a happy faculty of placing their guests at ease, and added much to the enjoyment of the occasion by their free-heartedness and cordiality, for which they have long since been marked in social circles.

TAILORS ON THE STRIKE.

There has been a little commotion among the knights of the needle in this city. In four of the leading clothing houses of the city an attempt was made to cut down the wages of the employes, and an enthusiastic kick resulted, which caused the men to lay off duty. The controversy between capital and labor was carried on peacefully and quietly, and there have been no demonstrations to attract the attention of those not in the business, and many will doubtless read with surprise the fact that a strike has been in progress without their knowing anything concerning it. A new schedule of prices has been adopted, in which both sides unite amicably, mutual compromises being made. It will go into effect at once, and the men promise to resume work Monday morning, and the business will run along as if nothing had occurred to mar its peacefulness and shake up its serenity. The goose is again elevated, and all is well that ends well.

ART STUDIES.

They had a rich time at the meeting of the art section of the Mutual Improvement Club last night. Mrs. Collins gave a study of the Cathedral of St. Peter's that was most thorough and vivid, aided by large drawings and stereoscopic views from Angelo's Dome of St. Peter's. The company was let down to Cellini's salt cellar as Mrs. Baker gave a sketch of the checkered life of Benvenuto Cellini, the great silver smith and worker in gold. The study one week hence will be on Canova and Thorwaldsen.

A SUDDEN DEATH.

Mr. James F. Clark, a young man aged about 22 years, and residing on Jefferson street west of Western avenue, died suddenly this morning of pneumonia, he having been ill for some little time, but was not deemed dangerously sick. Deceased was a son of Mrs. Frank Clark, whose husband died suddenly some years ago. The funeral services will be conducted under the auspices of the Temple of Honor, of which deceased was an honored member. The service will take place at the house at 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

THE ROCK COUNTY FAIR.

The Executive Committee of the Rock County Agricultural Society met this afternoon, and by a unanimous vote decided to hold a fair in Janesville during the first week in September, the fair continuing from Tuesday, September 2d to Friday September 6, inclusive. The Society is determined to make the fair the most attractive and the most successful financially of any yet held.

MEMORIAL.

Fold away the half-worn dresses,
That "our darling" used to wear;
With the many sacred relics—
Fold them all away with care:
For she never more will need them—
Never, in that wondrous clime;
Where the spotless robes of glory,
Are unstained by marks of time.

Where no mother, in her anguish,
Pours her soul in stifling prayer,
That the God of earth and Heaven
May her only idol spare.
Where no little feet e'er wander,
In the paths of vice and sin;
Where the angel, at the portal,
Stands to welcome them within.

Though our lives were strangely darkened,
By the cloud, which, like a pall,
Cast its shadow o'er our hearth-stone,
Shutting out the sunshine, all.
Yet, we know her ransomed spirit,
In those realms of bliss above,
Freed from mortal chains of bondage,
Basks in God's eternal love.

Chicago Market.

CHICAGO, March 1

The afternoon session of the board of trade was largely attended, and the markets were moderately active

Wheat—The market on spring wheat—This trade was unsettled and feverish to-day. Prices averaged somewhat higher than on yesterday, but the upward turn was due too much to an uneasy feeling among shorts, developed by the peculiar condition of the London market for English consols, to command entire confidence. Hence, the movement was irregular, and the fluctuations, amounting to 2c, were accompanied by considerable excitement. The closing quotations, hover, were fully ⅜c better than the ruling figures of the last board yesterday. The trading, at least in speculative circles, was very fair, and the deal was watched with great interest throughout. Cash No 2 closed at 1 11. Receivers very generally realized before the market touched the highest point of the day. The March deal is largely over sold, and the trade generally look for a squeeze before the close of the month. Seller May was 1½@2c higher than April
